NORWAY AND VICINITY

Ethel Everett called at the office Monday morning with some yellow violets which she had picked at South Paris. These violets had good luck and found a nice lot of mayflowers in blossom.

The Parish Committee of the Norway and South Paris Universalist Church have granted their minister, Rev. C. G. Miller, a leave of absence for the Sundays of May 20th and 27th, in order that he may be present with Mrs. Miller, and their son, Wilbur, at the graduation of their daughter, Ruth, from the Phillips School of Design for Women on May 25th. There will therefore be no preaching services on the Sundays mentioned. Mr. Miller and his family will go in their automobile and return by way of Canton, N. Y. visiting their son, Alan, at Lawrence University, who cannot be home this summer owing to an engagement with the Redpath Chautauqua. The trip will cover some 1500 miles. In June Mr. Miller will have been twenty-five years in constant service in the ministry since his ordination at Tufts College, Mass. in 1898.

The Universalist Sewing Circle will meet with Mrs. B. G. McIntire Friday afternoon at the usual time.

The W. F. Tubbs Co. led the Carroll Johnson Shoe Co. with a wide margin in a match at Norway village range Thursday evening. Twenty rounds were fought. The Tubbs team included Walter F. Tubbs, Geo. Tubbs, Arthur Omsstead, Jack Burgess and Elmer Aldrich. On the shoemaker's team were S. O. Jefferson, Jim True, Gerfield Walker, Ben Bancroft and Eddie Traflet.

John H. Bristol, the artist has bought a piece of land on the Dennis Pike farm a short distance west of the Dr. Charles Fogg place and will erect a studio 22x37 feet. The building is the "knock-down" type and comes ready to assemble.

Mayflowers are in full bloom and at their best, especially in open fields. Few blossoms have been found in woods where large patches of snow remain.

Mrs. John C. Shepard and Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Shepard have arrived in Norway. They occupy one of the Shepard's Camps until their bungalow on the hill is ready for occupancy. Doris Shepard and Clara Shepard will come later.

Howard Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Walter Brown in his enthusiasm to play chess has been in contact with a lot and received a bad cut over the eye. Several stitches closed the wound. His twin brother also has his troubles—his measles.

SPECIAL CORPORATION MEETING

To the legal voters of Norway Village Corporation.
Acting on petition of Geo. L. Perry and forty others all legal voters of said Corporation, who are hereby notified and warned in the name of the State of Maine, to assemble at Norway Hall within the town of Norway on Tuesday evening, the fifteenth day of May A. D. 1923, at seven thirty o'clock, then and there to act on the following articles, to wit:

SCHOOL HOUSING PROBLEM

Being very much interested in the school housing problem which we have before us here in the town of Norway, I have taken the pains to look back over the past several years in quest of any sentiment or action regarding this subject.

Looking back as far as 1912 I find items in the Advertiser which will be of interest to our citizens at this time and call attention to the following items appearing under their respective dates: Item from Norway Advertiser of Dec. 21st, 1912:

Norway Board of Trade
The Board of Trade meeting was held Friday evening, June 14th, at the municipal court room. C. H. Adams, chairman of the high school building committee submitted plans for the building as laid out along lines as suggested by teachers. The estimated cost of a wooden building, complete with fixtures and everything complete $25,000; fixtures and furniture, with complete equipment $5,000; the cost of the land $4,900.

It was voted that a meeting be called at the Grange Hall July 5th, said meeting to be a mass meeting open to the public.

"This item of equipment taken at its origin, the records of the Board of Trade is $5,000. In the Advertiser of that date the print was defective.

The following is an article printed in the Norway Advertiser in the issue of July 19th, 1912, over the name of Wm. C. Leavitt:

Educational Common Sense
Education has as many definitions as there are people asking the question. What is education? To the writer the simplest answer seems to be, that line of study that fits the student best for his life work. There are no flaws in our present line of teaching, when taking the ideas of the makers of the present methods in consideration. But as only about one in five of the students go to college, there are four who have spent three or four years of study on lines that are no particular value, as practically all that has been learned after leaving the ninth grade is forgotten.

I believe that if more vocational studies were given during the high school terms, there would be less boys and girls leaving school to work in stores and factories.

A large majority of our people, especially those with large families (with there were more) are obliged to have the older ones begin to be self supporting as soon as they are large enough, consequently after laying a foundation of the fundamental studies like arithmetic, spelling, writing and reading, they do not feel like spending four years working on something that will not add one cent to their immediate earning capacity, while on the other hand if during these four years, they could lay the foundation for some vocation that would do away with the years of time given to an apprentice, they would keep at the work through the fall term, knowing they would be entitled to pay according to their several abilities.

As a practical illustration of this idea, I have already seen a number of schools a short time ago added a teacher's course. Our principal tells me that those who take this work have always had work immediately and good wages without going to preparatory or normal schools.

I can take a young man into my store and shop and in three years can teach him so he can earn twice to three times what he could earn after spending the same time in high school. If I can do this and I have in several instances, what can experts do who have been trained for 1912.

The only difference in the conditions in 1912 and 1923 is that we are infinitely worse off now than then and had we not made the tax on every thousand dollars worth of property $1.57. The burden each succeeding year would be proportionately less as the bonds are retired. So Mr. Leavitt was not careless in his absence of figures.

What we need is the courage to express themselves as did Mr. Leavitt in 1912.

What we need is the courage to express themselves as did Mr. Leavitt in 1912.

Who of you readers who have books to keep would put any high school graduate in charge of them without careful oversight for some time? My own books are about as simple as possible, but I have lost hair in the struggle I have had in the past to clear and clean up after some have had with me, whom I know to be as good scholars as the best, and who ought to be able to teach me and could, but not in practical things.

Now to do these things, to teach our boys so they will not start handiapped three or four years upon leaving high school, we must have more room and more teachers. The expense will sound large, but divided over a series of years, among a thousand or so taxpayers, the cost will be ridiculously small, not much more than our poll tax now, allowing the bonds to run from fifteen to twenty years paying gradually. But the value to the boys and girls who will benefit by this change will be beyond computation.

Wm. C. Leavitt.
The manner in which Mr. Leavitt has sized up this situation, his calm enthusiasm he shows, his fearlessness so far as to adding a small additional tax over a long term of years, his foresight and wisdom as to the inestimable value to the boys and girls, benefit beyond computation, his faith in a community point of view shown by his statement "come to town meeting and vote money into the pockets of your children and incidentally your own," his insistence that we have "more room" and "more teachers," to me seems commendable to the highest degree and bears the earmarks of a one hundred per cent, red blooded citizen who builds for the future and in building realizes that the cost involved will bear good interest on the investment as a financial investment and infinitely more as an institution for making men and women.

Fitting boys and girls to be men and women is the greatest business we have to do with and the amount of pains and sacrifice we make today determines to a great extent, what our children will be in the future. We have five, ten or twenty-five years from now.

But has Mr. Leavitt been careless with his estimate of the added expense to the taxpayers? He says "the cost will be ridiculously small, not much more than our poll tax now, allowing the bonds to run from fifteen to twenty years, paying gradually." Sounds fishy at first thought.

The total amount called for in 1912 for building, land and equipment was $29,000. Our present call is for $39,000. An increase of $10,000. The committee reported a number of road advertising signs were ready for convenient locations. It was decided to hold a big meeting in May when ladies' night would be observed with a prominent speaker from the highway commission.

Spring Rains and Freshet
This section escaped the brunt of the storm which swept over Maine Saturday and Sunday, causing floods, extensive wash outs and great damage. We had rain in abundance from Saturday noon until Sunday morning, then more rain in the afternoon and night continuing well into Monday morning.

Streams were swollen and low lands submerged. High water mark in Lake Pennessewassee was not reached until afternoon and kept rising slowly until Monday night. Rural highways were washed deep and dug out by torrents rushing along the ditches or by mountain streams breaking from their courses. A number of small wooden bridges were carried away or submerged.

Not at least since the June freshet in 1917 have the intervals along Little Androscoggin River, Bird Brook and other streams been so flooded. The annual score over the "upper dam" at the head of Main Street was not reached until this year. Little water had been held in the mill pond owing to repairs on the dam, and the usual volume to pour over the sluice boards was not in evidence. No apprehension was felt over the safety of the dam at North Pond as the structure had been completely rebuilt by the Central Maine Power Co.

Water in Pennessewassee outlet stream flowed within a few feet of the basement in several blocks along Main Street but this caused no alarm. The mill yard at C. B. Cummins of South Pond was not so badly flooded as in past freshets. Lowlands between the depot and Elm Hill were under water as were meadows below the falls in Ward 8.

The Waterford stage arrived Monday morning practically on time but found traveling and Mrs. M. J. Sever, persons visiting their homes back in the country over Sunday were unable to return and held up until repairs on roads could be made.

Water flowed over Greenleaf Avenue near Munroe's machine shop and Henry Street leading across the bridge to P. H. Never's residence was covered in places to the depth of eight inches. This street was raised some two feet last fall, and a part of the new top surface has been washed away.

Board of Trade Will Boom Norway
A meeting of the Norway Board of Trade at Beals Tavern, Friday evening was well attended. Landlord Bob Seavey served a banquet at 7 o'clock after which the members discussed the matter of boom the town. The committee reported a number of road advertising signs were ready for convenient locations. It was decided to hold a big meeting in May when ladies' night would be observed with a prominent speaker from the highway commission.

BASEBALL

Paris Grammar 8; Norway Grammar 3
An exciting game was staged Friday afternoon at the high school grounds, South Paris, where the South Paris lads led Norway by five hits and won a pretty close battle. Excitement and noise blended with the playing for the boys went after a score in a whole hearted manner.

Henry Favor, the score keeper reports the following summary:

Smelt Fishing Law Explained
Capt. M. W. Sampson has received from the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game at Augusta an explanation of the new smelt fishing law to become effective on July 7, or 90 days after legislature adjourned.

The law as it stands prohibits taking smelts between April 1 and October 1 except with hook and line. At other times they can be dipped. This must stand according to the department, until the legislature can amend the law in 1925. "Tidal" was omitted from the bill, bringing all waters under the restriction. The apparent change came about through an effort of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Committee to protect their interest, of which the Inland Fisheries Department had no knowledge and is in no wise responsible.

A full explanation can be found in the new edition of the fish and game laws to be issued by the department.

Fishing Notes
Everett McKay landed a red spot from the lake weighing 1 lb. 14 oz. William Dubey was the lucky fisherman on a spot in the bog near the corn shop.

Physical exercises in the armory were conducted by Capt. Conary. Fifty of the seventy-two enlisted men were present and general interest in military affairs is apparent.

The third degree will also be conferred on Tuesday evening, May 8. It is expected about forty Pythians will visit Eureka Lodge K. of P. at Auburn Friday evening and Pennessewassee Lodge rank team work the rank of Page on several Auburn candidates.

Fordson Day at Ripley & Fletcher Co.
Some over two hundred attended the demonstration, lectures, dinner and movies put on by the Ripley & Fletcher Co. and the Ford Motor Co. in South Paris, Friday. This proved a regular event with a lively crowd there to enjoy the free entertainment and a big dinner.

The free banquet was served at noon in Paris Grange dining hall followed by a well balanced program in the main hall above. Perley F. Ripley presided and carried the affair along with plenty of snap and no waits.

The visitors were welcomed by Mr. Ripley. The speakers included County Agent B. H. Lovejoy and Leslie E. McIntire who emphasized the necessity of business methods in farming and economic production; Paul Galentine of the Ford Motor Co. who gave some interesting history of the development of the Ford business; C. E. Chellman of the Dearborn Independent; C. W. Wixon of Winslow, who spoke on his experience in using the Fordson tractor; C. M. Wiley of the New England Implement Co. and C. E. McMan of the Maine Plow Co.

Perfect Confidence

Norway People Have Good Reason for Complete Reliance

Do you know how—

To find relief from backache;

To correct distressing urinary ills;

To assist weak kidneys?

Your neighbors know the way—

Have used Doan's Kidney Pills;

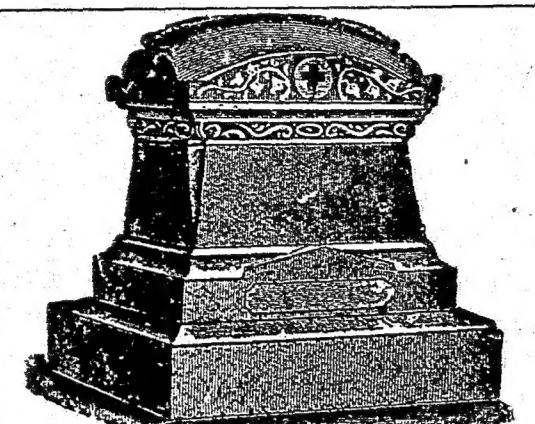

Have proved their worth in many tests.

Here's Norway testimony.

Mrs. Myrtle Payne, 237 Main St. says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and am thoroughly satisfied they are a dependable remedy. I had more or less pain across my back and kidneys which annoyed me when stooping or lifting. I found Doan's Kidney Pills good for the trouble and after I used this remedy the pains lessened. I have been practically free from the trouble since taking Doan's and feel they deserve my recommendation." (Statement given June 7, 1916.)

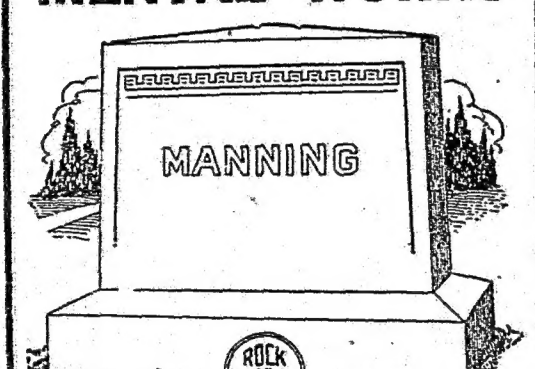

On September 3, 1920, Mrs. Payne said: "The statement I made still holds good. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as I have during the several years past. The great good they did me has lasted and my faith in Doan's has remained firm."

Seeks Divorce
Married 43 years ago in April, Laura E. Whitney, 61, of Fryeburg, mother of six children, five of whom are living and the oldest 41, was before Justice Lauren
M. Sanborn in the Superior Court, Monday morning, asking for a decree of divorce from William Henry Whitney, 68, of Harrison. She charged desertion as dating from May 1, 1918, and told His Honor that was the day when she departed from her home after being warned that her husband was about "to take possession."

Herbert Pratt, son-in-law of the libel-ant, testified that he encountered no difficulty with his mother-in-law who had resided in his home for the past five years. Two daughters and a son of Mrs.
Whitney appeared to substantiate her testimony. The children told the Court that they believed their mother safe only when she was away from the home and could not advise her returning. Mrs.
Whitney said that she had expressed a willingness to return to her husband on more than one occasion providing he would treat her differently.

Decision on the libel was reserved.

Paul Revere's Ride

It was the night of April the eighteenth in seventeen hundred seventy-five when Paul Revere made his famous ride. His friend was to hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch of the North Church tower as a signal light. One if the British came by land, and two if they came by sea.

Paul Revere then left his friend and silently rowed to the Charlestown shore. He was to ride and spread the alarm through every Middlesex village and farm to let the country folk know the British were going to Concord and Lexington to get the ammunition stored there.

On the opposite shore waited Paul Revere. He was impatient to mount and to ride. He kept a careful watch on the North Church tower. There appeared to him a light. He sprang to the saddle. He turned his horse for one last look and there appeared a second light. The British were coming by sea!

Paul Revere went to Lexington and Concord and surrounding towns. The British were defeated in the battle of Lexington.

Paul Revere's Ride

In April, eighteen seventy-five, Paul Revere took his famous ride to save his nation and flag.

The British were planning to take Charleston, Lexington, Medford and the rest of the surrounding towns, but the Americans found it out some way and secretly managed to save their towns.

A man named Paul Revere told his friend, "I will go over on the opposite shore and you keep watch for the British army, and if they march by land or come by sea, you hang a lantern in the belfry arch in the Old North tower. One if by land and two if by sea."

He then said, "Good-by" and rowed to the opposite shore by his boat.

He mounted his horse and rode along the margin of the bay and eagerly watched the tower of the Old North Church.

Meanwhile his friend had climbed the tower of the church and was watching patiently for the army to appear so he could give the signal.

Everything in the town was still, except the night wind, which seemed to say, "All is well!"

All of a sudden as he looked out of the belfry tower, he saw a shadowy something far away that looked like a bridge of boats.

Paul Revere was impatiently waiting for the signal when his eyes caught a gleamer and then a light and then other gleams and a light. He looked again to make sure, and then tightened his saddle girth and mounted, and spoke gently to his horse, then sped fiercely through every Middlesex village and farm.

It was twelve by the village clock when he reached Medford town. He heard the crowing of the cock and the barking of the farmers' dogs, and felt the damp of the fog, that rises after the sun goes down.

It was one by the village clock when he galloped into Lexington. He saw the glint of weather cock swinging in the moonlight bay, and the meeting house windows, black and bare, gaze at him with spectral glare.

It was two o'clock when he reached the bridge in Concord town. Here he heard the bleating of the flocks, the chirp of the birds, and felt the breath of the morning breeze.

After he had spread the alarm through all the villages and farms, the dreadful fight took place at this bridge and the Americans won the battle, but it had not been for this famous man, Paul Revere, this place would have been destroyed.

Now the people are telling this story of Paul Revere's Ride in every home.

Paul Revere's Ride

The British army was near Lexington and Concord and the Americans were fearing an attack. On April 18th, 1875 Paul Revere was the hero of the battle that took place next day.

He told a friend that day that if he saw the British coming by land to hang one lantern in the belfry arch of the North Church and hang two of them if by sea. He said, "I will be on the opposite shore where I can see your signal light, I will then ride through every Middlesex village and farm for the people to get ready."

His friend while watching heard in the distance the sound of arms and the tramp of feet while they were marching down to their boats.

Then he climbed up into the arch of the North Church tower. After pausing a moment to look down. But suddenly he saw a line of boats out in the bay.

While on the other side Paul Revere's eager eyes gazed at the landscape. Behold! A gleam of light, "may," but two.

Then he sprang to his saddle and was off. The fast steed leaped, striking sparks out with his feet when he hit the stones with his hoofs.

It was 12 o'clock when he came into Medford town.

It was 1 o'clock by the town clock when he galloped into Lexington. He saw in the moonlight the meeting house windows blank and bare.

It was 2 by the clock when he galloped into Concord. This meant almost morning and he could hear the birds singing. Everybody was up and around and faced the Red Coats. The battle was ended with the minute men or Americans victorious.

He rode through the sleeping town of Medford where the dogs barked and the cocks crowed. Then into Lexington where the houses had a very spectral look and appeared as ghosts.

At two he galloped into Concord where his cries awoke many who could be defenders of their wives and children.

He rode through the night, giving a warning that all Americans should remember. The statue of Paul Revere was made soon after this ride as a token to the great man.

In Memory of Rev. J. C. Snow

The first Universalist Church of Haverhill, Mass. celebrates its one hundredth anniversary, May 6th and 7th. On Alma Pendexter Hayden wrote the following in memory of Rev. J. C. Snow who was pastor of the Monument Square Church when she attended there:

The torch of liberty and love
He bore aloft, nor lowered its light,
But ever high, serene and clear,
He kept the beacon burning bright.
He preached the love of God to man,
He brought a message full of cheer,
The powers of tyranny and sin,
His brave heart conquered without fear.
His light shines on a guiding star,
That sheds a pure and steadfast ray,
Undimmed through all the passing years,
It sheds a gleam across our way.

ALMA PENDEXTER HAYDEN.
Mr. Snow's first pastorate was in Norway, Me. and he went to the Civil War as chaplain in the Norway regiment.

Prof. Wilmot B. Mitchell of Bowdoin College will preach at the Congregational Church next Sunday.

Rev. O. B. Barnard received word Wednesday morning that his father had passed away, and immediately left for Vermont with his family. Mr. Barnard will return first of the week to finish packing his household goods preparatory to taking up his pastorate in Vermont.

Methodist Church Notes

Next Sunday, May 6th, Morning Worship at 10:45 with sermon by the pastor, Rev. T. C. Chapman, on the subject "The Christian Life is the Normal Life." Evening Worship at 7, with sermon on "The Church's One Monopoly." Sunday School at 12. Mr. O. L. Stone, Superintendent, Epworth League at 6. Topic, "What Is Sunday For?" Psalms 118, 24; Isa. 58, 13, 14.

The Win One Class of the Sunday School celebrated "Gentleman's Night" Tuesday evening with a social at the Community Hall. Supper was served at 7 o'clock. The tables were prettily decorated and the menu all that could be desired. After the tables were cleared away, musical selections were given by Louise French and Chester French, Jr., and readings by Ella Clark which delighted the company. A series of games and social stunts finished the evening's program.

Rain failed to keep a crowd away from a dance at Norway Grange hall Saturday evening. Parties came from Oxford and other towns to make a good sized crowd considering the bad weather. Shaw's Jazz orchestra played. Another dance will be held there next Saturday night with the same music.

Dangerous Bacteria in Lake Water

Water in Lake Penneesseewassee is unsafe for drinking or culinary purposes until purified. This is the verdict from an examination of a sample at the State Department of Health at Augusta. Water must be boiled at least five minutes to destroy certain bacteria which might prove dangerous to health. This matter is important and all persons must cooperate with the Norway Health Officer in the matter. Any water showing bacteria can be found in another column of this paper.

The following from the State Department to Leroy Spiller, health officer, will tell the story: "The bacteriological examination for the sample of water submitted to us April 27 shows the presence of a large amount of pollutional bacteria of an intestinal origin. This water is unsafe for use at the present time without some form of purification being employed, or the water boiled at least five minutes before using for drinking or culinary purposes."

This is the condition of affairs and all persons drinking from the supply must heed the warning to avoid possible sickness.

The High School Question

What do the promoters of the forty thousand dollar new high school building propose to do with the present building around which the Norway secondary school of boys and girls and tender associations? Turn it into a primary school house for lower grade scholars, evidently. It was built many years ago and ought to be preserved for the purpose, for which it has so many years been used. If the promoters of the new school like the old church at the center of the town. Years ago it was the Norway Liberal Institute. Afterwards it was changed to the Academy, and lastly it became the Norway High School, but all the time it has been fitting boys and girls for college for teachers and business and the duties of life. Thousands of tender memories cluster around the old building and on the hill where so many of us received our higher education. Don't have it turned into a primary school house. Don't destroy this sacred shrine. If the promoters of the new school were not educated in its classic halls and never taught there, they ought it would seem to have some regard for its preservation in its original character. An old time pupil.

School Question

An addition to the high school building, giving two large extra rooms can be made at an estimated expense of $3700 it is said. This would give ample accommodations for all high school scholars and this was the plan and estimate of the committee it is said, first proposed to the selectmen and afterwards changed. Why it was so changed does not appear. But suppose all necessary additions and equipment could be made at an expense of five or six thousand dollars would it not be a more sensible business arrangement than to go into the expensive of a building whose cost equalled or exceeded our tax limit? There can be but one sane and safe business answer to this. To state it is to answer it.

Norway people are not likely to bond the town for a thirty or forty thousand dollar scheme that can be accomplished with less than ten thousand dollars. C. F. Whitman.

New Schoolhouse Problem

A special town meeting is called for Saturday, May 12th, to again vote on the new schoolhouse problem.

The meeting is to be held in Norway Hall at 2-15 P. M.

Mark the hour of the day and be present. Fifteen minutes after 3 o'clock. The other meeting, April 21st, was called at 2 o'clock p. m., and less than 250 voters were cast and a majority were not in favor of building at that time. The petitioners asking for this meeting are 270 legal voters and the hour set favorable to quick work and a deep plunge into municipal debt to the limit.

Be present and register your wish. Remember the hour: 3:15 p. m., Saturday, May 12th. Remember the place: on the crest of the wave of unreasonable extravagance and will it be wise to hamper future generations with our folly?

Grange Play a Success

The melo-drama in four acts, "In Plum Valley" staged under the auspices of Paris Grange at their hall April 26, and 27 attracted good sized audiences and proved entertaining. The high school orchestra played the first evening and the Grange team furnished music between the acts and for dancing the second evening.

The rural story is one common in dramas of this kind. There is the villain seeking the famous daughter and holding the whip end by forged statements and other irregular methods. Of course the hero struggles against false insinuations and other baneful influences and the heroine although deeply in love with the hero, will sacrifice her happiness and marry the bad man to save her father and the homestead. Characters introduced at the psychological moment check the villainous career and indicate the hero. The usual comedy side lines interwoven with the tragic have their good effects on the story and keep the audience in a happy frame of mind.

In this play "Hugh Elkins," an ad-venturer, a bad man and smooth villain, was played by Wilbur Gammon in reg-ular form. "Dr. Arthur Markham," a young physician, unjustly accused, was cleverly impersonated by Roger Davis.

"Uncle Jared Wilkins," a down East farmer, and a victim of a hold-up for his daughter, was ably played by Herbert Woodworth. The heroine, "Eazel Wilkins" who suffered much by the forced attentions of the villain "Elkins" was taken acceptably by Lydia Sweet.

Her mother "Aunt Lucinda Wilkins" as portrayed by Mrs. Mildred Irvine, was a strong character in the family, but in blissful ignorance of serious conditions until the conclusion of the story.

Characters to unmask Elkin past and checkmate his deep seated villainy were played by Herbert Gibbs and "Grace Stollard" the deserted wife of Elkin, impersonated by Mrs. Mae Stevens.

Rustic comedy was skillfully produced by Margaret West as "Sallie Brown," a romantic farm maid, and Louis Woodworth as "Charlie Scott," a regulation country bumpkin, but essential in the plot.

Leon A. Brooks made a typical country constable known as "Ted Simpkins" and was called official into the case by the villain to arrest the Doctor, but later the tables turned and Elkins became the prisoner in regular handouts.

STORY OF BY-GONE DAYS

Twenty-six Years Ago

Norway held a special town meeting to act upon the Oxford Central Ry. proposal to build and equip an electric road to East Stoneham and South Waterford.

It was voted to purchase $10,000 worth of stock, nothing to be paid in until the cars were running the entire length. If the total cost exceeded $210,000 the vote should be declared void. Road must be completed Sept. 1, 1898. Total votes cast $18, yes 238; no 80. It is expected $50,000 can be raised on subscription in town.

An exhibition of the Edison projectoscope in the Opera House was a strong attraction. The motion picture subjects included fire departments, passenger trains, doves flying about a cote and a few short comedies. Bryan's Chicago speech and the opening of McKinley's response to the notification committee were heard through a phonograph.

A bill has been presented at Augusta incorporating the Oxford Light Company, to supply light, heat and power by electricity in Norway and Paris.

The incorporators are Geo. F. Macomber, John F. Hill, H. L. Shepherd, Fred E. Richards.

Joshua G. Rich of Bethel, hunter, trapper, guide, pension attorney and author, died at his home. He lived about Bangs Lake more than 30 years and made a record as the greatest bear killer Maine ever produced. For many years he lived at the foot of Mt. Abram in Greenwood and later resided on Bethel Hill. His age was 76 yrs. 9 mo. 24 days.

Potatoes in Fryeburg are selling at 25 cents per bushel.

Chas. H. Sargent is superintendent of the B. F. Spinney & Co. cutting room, taking the place of W. H. Barnes, resigned.

You feel out of place if you have on the old styles. This is a style age for men and it costs really no more to dress as others and not be conspicuous.

Then too, this Spring values at OUR STORES are better than for several years.

NORTH NORWAY

Mrs. Edwin Austin and two children from North-Lovell visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hussey, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Morse and baby, also Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swan and baby, were guests at C. D. Morse's, Sunday.

A. D. Kilgore has been trimming apple trees for Mr. Pike on the place formerly known as the Sewall Penley place.

C. D. Morse and sons have saved up Leslie Flint's and Will Delano's wood piles.

Horace Hussey has saved E. T. Judkins' and A. D. Kilgore's wood.

Charles Foster has been trimming apple trees for Horace Hussey.

The "Hay and Farm" boys began an early ball game which kept the fans on both sides happy, yet anxious, for 'twas a close game with a very few points in favor of the Farm boys at the close.

The ladies of the club made it right with the visiting team though, and all friends, by calling "Dinner!" And such a dinner, with a wonderful variety and more of it in the kitchen. The tables were set up three times and then they began to fill in old places as soon as anyone arose from the table, so the count was lost at 150 and when the waitresses and those in charge sat down, there was still a well-laden table with a big variety of fancy cakes, custard pies, plain pies and cut cake to follow the hot beans and three kinds of salads and coffee.

At 3 o'clock promptly, the program began with a flag drill by the Crockett Ridge School well carried out, followed by the flag salute and singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the community.

The next number was to have been an original poem on the Spirit of the Old Times in '75, arranged with tableaux by the Millettville school, but owing to the sickness in the teacher's family, she was unable to come and put it on. The Crockett Ridge school next gave a very well acted little play written by Miss Emerson, their teacher, carrying out the history of Paul Revere's ride and the battle that followed. The last number was Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem, "Freedom, Our Queen," recited by Eva Marion Jackson, Millettville school, with appropriate gestures with the flag. Then the audience sang America, which appropriately closed the exercises. Dennis Pike, Mellic Dunham and Cherry Noble gave selections all through the dinner hours, and furnished music for the dancing the rest of the day and evening.

The ice cream went rapidly in the afternoon and in the evening sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The program was a wonderful success and the ladies wondered how the club could afford to give such an excellent dinner free gratis to so many guests, but farmers' wives know the necessity of a well filled pantry at home, so plan on the same at Club Hall Tuesday, May 1st, at 8 o'clock P. M. with ice cream on sale.

Birthday Party—Eva Marion Jackson celebrated her 9th birthday on Monday, this week. Fourteen little folks gathered and played games in doors and out for the afternoon. At 3:30 they were invited into the dining room where a big 4 layer birthday cake with white frosting and coconut, and pink candles in rose bud holders, held their attention. From the big cake pink crepe paper streamers ran to little individual cakes like the big one. A second birthday cake of orange filling and frosting was donated by one of the neighbors. Vanilla and chocolate ice cream with fancy cake was passed and thoroughly enjoyed by all. Then the candles were lighted and blown as of old, on the birthday cake, and the little hostess cut the first piece and it was forthwith sampled by all, as each little guest left, they took their tiny cake home with them. It was a merry afternoon long to be remembered by all.

Eva's last birthday was celebrated aboard the "City of Rome," Savannah line, on the way home from Florida. The chef made a big cake and candles provided by her mother lit up the gay festivity and she served it to the 112 on board.

Each has a distinct work which it does best. Each possesses a definite and special value for the operator.

The Firestone Dealer will supply you with Passenger Car and Truck Type Cords. SUMNER

Mrs. A. M. Garey
Mrs. Susie Garey, wife of A. M. Garey passed away at the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, Tuesday night, April 17, following a serious surgical operation for gall stones. She was 48 years old last January and was one of nine children of the late Benjamin R. and Columbia (Keen) Davenport. She had been in poor health for a number of months and a great sufferer at times. Patient, cheerful, optimistic, she met every call to duty with calm courage, untiring energy, and efficient service. She gave to the world the best she had. We have no doubt that she met the last great call with the same calm courage that had characterized her whole life. She was a devoted Christian joining the church when a mere child. She also was a member of Pleasant Pond Grange and always took her part in the work and entertainments.

She was the mother of twelve children, eight are now living, four boys passing on in infancy, namely, Mrs. Ella Grover of Mason, Nellie Garey of Sumner, Mrs. J. H. Ellingwood, Mrs. Fred Cash of Paris, Elden, Lulu, Amy and Ava, who live at their home in Sumner. Besides her husband she also leaves two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Abbie Noyes, Alice Turner and Adelbert Davenport all of Sumner, and five brothers gone before. She also leaves several grandchildren, nephews, nieces, cousins, and an aged uncle, Sherman Davenport of Sumner to mourn their loss.

The funeral was held at West Sumner Friday at 11 a. m., April 20, Rev. F. E. Dunn, of Buckfield officiating. There were beautiful flowers from relatives and friends, also from the Grange, showing the love and esteem in which she was held. Interment at Pleasant Pond Cemetery.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Medical reports show men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It can be guarded against by preventing intestinal infection. The intestinal anti-septic, Adler-ika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing all food, decaying matter which might cause infection. It brings out matter you never thought was in your system and which may have been poisoning you for months. Adler-ika is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach. Frank Kimball, Druggist.

EARLY DAYS OF NORWAY

By Mrs. Harriet B. Charles

Unusual events, like the Flood, linger long in the memory of a child, but happenings in the town were talked over and handed down by individuals from year to year, which perhaps, though not always accurate, still were kept alive by repetition as the years went by. It is noted that events between 1840 and '50 were of more than ordinary interest. New industries springing up, little exciting occurrences in a village like Norway were discussed, which in a large town would be lightly treated. For instance, a sect known as the 'Millerites' believers in the speedy return of Christ and the end of the world, was the subject of great importance among certain religious organizations and succeeded in making changes among many people. Some of its men upon whom they largely depended for support, because of this influence, led many into its strange belief. I have seen in newspapers not long ago, questionings as to the truthfulness regarding the queer proceedings of that time.

One evening my father called to us to come and see a strange sight. One of the promoters of this sect had a short time before opened his house to all of this faith, believing they must have "all things in common," as did the early disciples. He was what was termed in those days a well to do man, so his house was filled with believers and a few who went there disposed of their possessions, feeling they would need nothing more. These people had, on the night in question, climbed to the roof of the house clad in white robes, waiting to be "taken up" because that was the day set for the ascension. It was a strange occurrence and very impressive. After several similar disappointments the belief began to be doubted and after a time they resumed their usual occupations. The little church must have suffered during the existence of the episode.

Then began rumors of a railroad between Portland and Canada, to run very near Norway, and the almost incredible statement that we should be able to go to Portland and back in a day! As the days passed, rumors became facts and much interest was aroused. The railroad bridge being built in the next town, Paris, and not far from our village, parties of boys and girls would have permission to go and watch the proceedings and inspect the large crowd of workmen, who built their shanties and lived in them along the line of work. Their primitive way of living was a great novelty to the children and grown-ups as well, and soon the dreams of rapid transit became an assured fact.

There were also stories of a new institution of learning which was to be a school for those who wished to pursue their studies in advanced branches, and not only our young people to be benefited, but those living in surrounding districts. There was no suitable building, but the promoters no way daunted, did provide temporary quarters in Major Millett's meat establishment on the corner of Paris street until a permanent building could be erected. Soon a large crowd of workmen transformed the old place into a comfortable temple of learning known as the Norway Liberal Institute, with a splendid corps of efficient teachers.

It was a joyful occasion for one who had had only the privilege of attending district school, "the old Red Schoolhouse!" It deserves special mention, for I know the older students will love and appreciate the memory of the place where so many of them received the rudiments of their education. The old schoolhouse at the Falls is often my thought, for I was five years old when I learned my A, B, C's at the knee of a bright young lady who seemed much interested in the little folks. My interest in the dear old school is much enhanced by the thought that three of my four sons, also trod the same paths of study there and though changes had taken place in ways of advancement and discipline, it was still the same dear Old Red Schoolhouse!

My eldest son is sixty-six years of age and I taught in the old room myself before my marriage, so it must have had a long existence. I can see just how it looked when I was a child, but I suspect changes have taken place, and I hope for improvement. One entered the wood shed first, then a door opened into a long passage way where we hung our outer garments and the long wool stockings which were drawn over our shoes and stockings when there were snowy days. We had no rubbers or rubber boots till later years. There were two doors, one at the right and another at the left, entrances to the Hall of Learning.

As we entered a large box stove in the center of the room, met our gaze with stove pipes running around the room. There was always a huge pile of wood by the stove to replenish the fire through the day. I have the impression that there was no salaried janitor, but that the big boys who attended the winter term took turns taking care of the fire and sweeping out. I know of several instances when their work did not satisfy the committee or the teachers; when there was no fire kindled when we arrived and the morning session must be suspended.

I wonder if the room remains still unplastered, for then in the 40's the ceiling and sides of the room were unpainted, smooth boards and the desks of the same character carved with the autographs of the boys and girls and all sorts of hieroglyphics. The aisles were narrow so it was easy when the teacher's eyes were not upon us to hold communication. What bliss when we were large enough to occupy the back seats, near the windows, where in the old days, there were no curtains or shade of any sort, when the sun, toward summer time, threw its rays upon us with intense heat, and some times removed to a less sunny spot, but generally we would much rather remain near the windows, where a glimpse of a passing team made a welcome change to the monotony of the long session.

Once or twice a year the mothers of the pupils gathered, on a stated day with mops, brooms, soap and sand, and the room had such a vigorous cleaning that we hardly dared step on the floor for a few days.

With a feeling amounting to a sense of pride and the sense of almost awe, the teacher opened the exercises when each child read from the New Testament two verses, and then the prayer offered by the teacher and in the winter term when we had a master, such long, fervent prayers—we were quiet, for I think his eyes were always open and was to the pupil if he took advantage of the solemn hour.

The water pail and dipper were on a long bench on the side of the room, and we were very thirsty, before noon, and there was much clamouring to see who should "pass the water" which was quite a lengthy process.

How I welcomed the reading classes, which I think were called first, when a long line of us "tood" a crack in the floor. What an interesting book the "Young Reader" was! Does anyone remember the verses in that book, beginning:

I wish I could see the old book and the other readers that were used in the schools of that day. The American first class book had a charm and delight for me with its selections of prose and verse, until I reached the sublime heights of reading it daily. Why did I not keep those wonderful books! I suppose that the expense of the books was a reason why they were passed on to others of the school, but I should prize them highly if I had them. Then the Geography classes, my struggles with trying to master long division were trials. I doubt if the present generation are more thoroughly instructed in these branches of study than they were in my time.

Toward the close of the morning session we had various mind exercises, and waited anxiously for the signal to be released. Then the glorious intermission when it was stormy and we were permitted to take our dinner at the school room. The opening of the tin pails and baskets wherein our dinner was deposited. I can see the eager, hungry faces, producing huge slices of bread and butter, with cold homemade sausages, large twisted doughnuts, gingerbread, and sometimes a generous piece of mince pie, food enough to feed more than one child, and often we shared our lunch with children who had not as much as our baskets contained.

After lunch the snow balling, when the floor of the room was covered with snow, which melted and by the time the afternoon session began, needed mops and brooms, but it was glorious fun. How I loved the old Noah Webster spelling book with its blue pastboard covers, its wealth of words from the a, b, c's and B-a-k-e-r over to the long hard words at the back of the book, the little pictures of the man stoning the boy who was stealing his apples, of the milk maid who spilled her milk.

I have so far omitted speaking of one of the charms of the old District school—the spelling school. They were anticipated as festive occasions in the winter sessions of the school. We had no "movies" in those days. There were occasional dancing parties, but very few of us were permitted to attend these assemblies as they were considered "inventions of the evil one." Once in a while a travelling show would lead people to one of the halls in the village, but shows were few and far between. So the "spelling school" and occasionally an evening set apart for recitation or "speaking pieces" and dialogues were largely attended and much enjoyed. The school room on such occasions was not a "blaze of light" with its tallow candles, placed in all sorts of holders, made of potatoes and turnips, and now and then candlesticks, one on each desk and always two lights on the master's desk. The room filled, there were no preliminaries but the evenings of the spelling school two leaders were chosen to "choose sides" who desired and usually called for the best spellers, anxious to protect his followers from an ignominious defeat, that is retiring with saddened faces. The room filled, and exercise and might be continued in the schools of today with profitable results.

The older boys were always in evidence at the close, with their large sleds, ready to escort the girls to their homes.

Where are the families who were represented at the school of no record, living, at least at the village, who were represented at those gatherings. Their descendants may be in Norway, but if living are not among the active population of today. Not one of the Ames family or the Olcott Brown homestead except Miss Nellie Brown; not one of the Ames family. Mr. Julian Brown is still there. Aaron Shackley's family of whom there were girls in school at that time, are not living, nor any of the Ellis family. Major Millett's family perhaps has one survivor, Dr. Millett's all gone. The Wrisley family not one left. Freeman Millett's, I have known nothing of for years and of one of what we used to call the Falls District are left.

Isaac Abbott, who I believe is living but an invalid, will perhaps recall some of whom I have no knowledge. I remember the old pupils of the old red schoolhouse with love and they will live long in my memory.

I am the only survivor of my father's family of six and these chronicles, though very imperfect, may help some belated descendant of the old time to keep alive some fond remembrances of the dear old days.

(Written by Mrs. Harriet E. Charles, 54 Quint Ave., Allston, Mass.)

Published Book on Roosevelt
Citizens of Norway and vicinity, will be interested to know that Rev. Edward H. Cotton, son of Rev. Edward S. Cotton, former pastor of the Baptist church, has just published a book entitled, "The Book of Being Published under the name of D. Appleton & Co., N. Y. Mr. Cotton is a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, Colby College and Union Theological Seminary. He has held pastorates in Provincetown and Danvers, Mass., and is now assistant editor of the Christian Register, Boston, Mass., and minister of the Unitarian Church, Marblehead, Mass. He served in France during the year 1917-18, with the A. E. F., in the capacity of Y. M. C. A. war secretary. Mr. Cotton began to be known as a writer about two years ago when he published an interview with Roger W. Babson on the question of his religion. Since then Mr. Cotton has interviewed about twenty notable men and women about religion and the higher life, including Gilbert K. Chesterton, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, David Warfield, James Adams, Harry Lauder and Will Hayes. He has probably interviewed more well-known persons on religion and higher life than any other living writer.

The following paragraph is taken from a critical appreciation of the book:

"Roosevelt was first of all an idealist—a practical idealist. He dreamed dreams. He saw visions. But he kept his feet firmly placed on the ground, so he was able always to apply his ideal to the actual. He was a politician; and politicians only; some are nature-lovers and nature-lovers only; Roosevelt was both. He was as astute a politician as ever won a battle; he was also a student of the wonders of creation, and this interest gave him a spiritual power that the materialist could not fashion. He loved the silent spaces of far-stretching plains, blazing autumn forests, towering mountain ranges and systems of stars.

He loved the roaring waterfalls and the thunder of the tempest. He was a man of such abounding energy and action that many miss the profoundness of his spiritual perceptions."

This paragraph gives some clue to the purpose which the author had in mind in writing the book. His object is to show just what were the principles which governed Roosevelt's conduct and beliefs. Mr. Cotton carefully traces the whole course of Roosevelt's career and shows its events in relation to these principles. From the beginning of Roosevelt's political life, as a member of the Civil Service Commission, as Police Commissioner, as Governor, as Vice-President, and as President, there was a unity in his actions. His strength, purpose, integrity, high sense of duty and intense love of his country are exhibited step by step in Mr. Cotton's analysis. The directness of Roosevelt's personality, the clear words with he expressed himself offer such a student as Mr. Cotton a wealth of material.

Oliver Ellis and Junior Johnson were among the Canton runners. The time made on the entire run of the Canton boys was 52 minutes and 25 seconds. Supt. W. L. Chase is Scoutmaster of the Canton Troop.

Attempted Break
An attempt was made Thursday night to break into the Station at Gilbertville which would doubtless have been successful, had the night operator, Mrs. G. Albert Ellis, gone to work at the usual time (10 P. M.). Being tired she had gone down early planning to sleep until time to go on duty, so had no lights. About 9:25 P. M. a man appeared on the platform and began trying the doors and windows and making it evident by his actions that he meant mischief. Mrs. Ellis and her son Oliver who always stays with her when she is on night duty, decided to keep quiet and watch him a while, meantime calling up Mr. Ellis to be ready for business if needed. After hanging around trying doors and windows, going over to the Brown and Co. camp and trying that door he evidently decided he was ready to proceed and began trying to pry up a window. Before he had succeeded, however, he noticed Mrs. Ellis who was sitting beside the window, watching him and in his surprise he stopped his work on the window. Mrs. Ellis and her son ordered him to move on, but this he did not seem inclined to do and Oliver was finally obliged to give a demonstration with a 32 automatic. About this time Mr. Ellis put in appearance with another revolver and deciding things were getting too hot, the fellow hastily disappeared and by the time the Sheriff's who had been called and the men from the Brown Co. camp, had arrived he had made his escape, and although the track and road was searched for several miles and watch was kept all night nothing more was seen of him.

Mr. W. H. Benson of Baltimore had considerable worry about his daughter. For over a year he was kept in anxiety, but it seems from the following letter that he and his daughter are both worry-free now:

"I have been talking about you Dr. True's Elixir. It is great stuff! The Elixir is doing good work for my daughter; please send us two bottles. Yours for health.—W. H. Benson."

Scores and scores of such letters show us that Dr. True's Elixir has been most successful for use in relieving constipation.

Watch these symptoms: Constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, cramps, eyes heavy and dull, bad breath, all gone feeling, headaches. They may lead to more serious conditions—bad colds, grippe, etc. To ward off or make attack light, take Dr. True's Elixir. 40c, 60c, $1.20.

BOY SCOUT RELAY RACE

The longest relay race ever run in Maine and probably the most unique, was staged Saturday, April 28, under County Executive Harold C. Perham. A message started from Rumford Falls at 5 A. M. and relayed over mile laps through Oxford County in a wide loop, reaching Rumford approximately 15 hours later. The distance covered was 117 and 6-10 miles with 120 boy scouts in the relay representing 16 troops. Route included Rumford, Rumford Center, Hanover, Bethel, Lock's Mills, Bryant Pond, West Paris, Norway, Oxford, South Paris, Buckfield, Hartford, Gilbertville, Dixfield and Ridgville. The first forty miles weather and road conditions were good. The remainder of the distance was a medley of rain, mud and flooded highways. Not a boy missed his post and not a grumble escaped the determined youngsters as they waited hours in a driving rain to put the message across.

The runners were conveyed to their posts by teams and autos, but in the case of South Paris Troop, the truck mired and several boys walked five miles to their stations, then waded across overflowed roads to reach home.

Executive H. C. Perham furnishes the following official schedule, including troop, route, time, distance, average time per mile.

1. Rumford No. 3, Rumford to Rumford Center, 45' 20", 5.8 mi., 7.92.
2. Rumford No. 2, Rumford Center to Hanover, 42' 25", 6 mi., 4.50 ft., 6.938.
3. R. P. Han., Hanover to Bethel, 90' 30", 12 mi., 3,740 ft., 7.121.
4. Bethel, Bethel to Locke's Mills, 34' 53", 5.913.
5. L. Mills, Locke's Mills to B. Pond, 25', 3 mi., 3,345 ft., 6.88.
6. B. Pond, B. Pond to West Paris, 50' 30", 6 mi., 4,280 ft., 7.415.
7. West Paris, West Paris to Turkey Ridge, 30' 15", 4 mi., 1,320 ft., 7.121.
8. Norway, Turkey Ridge to Oxford, 54', 11 1/2 mi., 7.15.
9. Oxford, Oxford to South Paris, 49', 6 mi., 2,200 ft., 7.6363.
10. South Paris, South Paris to Buckfield, 116', 13 mi., 8.928.
11. Buckfield, Buckfield to Hartford, 70', 8 mi., 2,070 ft., 8.341.
12. Canton, Hartford to Gilbertville, 52' 45", 7 mi., 2,700 ft., 7.028.
13. Dixfield, Gilbertville to Dixfield, 84', 11 mi., 7.6363.
14. Mexico No. 2, Dixfield to Ridgville P. O., 34', 4 1/2 mi., 7.555.
15. Mexico No. 3, Ridgville P. O. to Steuben, 41' 30", 5 mi., 8.3.
16. Rumford No. 1, Steuben H. S. to Munk. Bldg., 35', 5 mi., 7.00.

The above state information is official. 40 miles of dry going and 75 miles in the rain. The best relay teams cannot be ascertained from the above figures on account of the inequality of road and weather conditions on the day of the race Saturday, April 28th.

Troop No. 1, Bethel, made the best speed under the best possible road conditions. Troop No. 1, South Paris made the slowest speed under the worst possible road and weather conditions existing in Oxford County.

The classifications as to the best teams will be given later, after full statistics of race, conditions, etc., have been carefully considered. Considering handicaps, etc., Troop No. 1, Bethel; Troop No. 1, Canton; and Troop No. 1, Rumford stand on equal footing.

Every one of the sixteen relay teams qualified for the streamer which is given for 100 per cent. performance. The placard worn by each runner had on it the motto, "Boost Oxford County."

The relay message signed by 120 runners starts with the following: "It's what you do—and not what you say that counts in scouting!" (the full message will be out for next week's news). 117.6 miles in 14 hrs. and 53 1/2 minutes. (averaging 7.64 minutes to the mile).

This race was run for several reasons:

- (1) For the sake of doing something worthwhile.
- (2) To prove that Oxford County Boy Scouts can co-operate (30 days from the time the plans were laid before the different troops, the Race was successfully completed. All officers were scouts, and the race was run only by registered scouts).
- (3) For the sake of giving publicity to the public, proving that Scouting is a "He Boy's" organization.
- (4) To show that team work only can bring maximum results.
- (5) To place before the citizens of Oxford County the fact that their social organization is "second to none" in the State of Maine.
- (6) To prove to outsiders that Oxford County is still raising the "boys of brave and grit" that have in the past reflected honor to the name "the hills of Old Oxford." "Boost Oxford County." (7) To further instill into the minds of Oxford County Scouts that success in any line is accomplished by actually doing things. Also an organization rises to greatness only by attempting tasks that to many seem impossible, yet which accomplished only reflect honest credit to the doer.

The names of the runners will appear next week.
